

CONNECTICUT CONVENTION.

RENOMINATION OF GOV. HAWLEY BY THE REPUBLICAN STATE CONVENTION—OLIVER H. PERRY FOR LIEU-TENANT-GOVERNOR—THE PLATFORM.

NEW-HAVEN, Conn., Jan. 24.—It was thought that the recent heavy snows would prevent a large attendance at the Republican State Convention to-day, but such proved not to be the fact, for early in the morning of yesterday crowds commenced coming in, and last night all

At 10 o'clock a. m., the members began to assemble at Music Hall, and were called to order by the Hon. H. H. Starkweather. Ex-Lieut.-Gov. Roger Avesitt was called as temporary chairman, and the Rev. Dr. Phelps opened the meeting with prayer. Mr. Averitt then spoke briefly on political affairs in the state. He said they had come in Convention to-day to consider not only interests which affect the State, but those of the whole country. They would not discharge their duty acceptably to the people, unless they decide what shall be their course in regard to the great issues of the day.

There should be forth from the Convention no uncertain declaration. We ought, he said, to take a position about which there could be no question as to where they stood either by the people of the State or country. They ought, he said, to indorse the action of Congress, and to declare in favor of the claims of the laboring man.

The body of the house at this time was well filled, as were the galleries, and the Chairman stated that they were now ready to enter into permanent organization. A Committee was organized for that purpose, consisting of one member from each Senatorial District. The Committee then retired for deliberation, and soon brought in

Mr. Foster, on taking the chair, returned his thanks. He was happily surprised to see so large a Convention in view of the state of travel. He expressed the hope that they would do their whole duty. It belonged to the Republican party to carry the country through the present crisis, as they had during the late rebellion. The President has proved treacherous to the position he had occupied on his election; and had disappointed the hopes of the loyal people. He stood in the way of healthy legislation, and gives aid to the enemies of the country.

by his acts. We could not receive back the Southern States until they had given some guarantee for the future that they refused to do; hence the struggle to-day. There were great difficulties in the way of the settlement of the questions of the day; and if the Republican party did its whole duty the thing would be accomplished. The Committee on Credentials reported a list of delegates after which the Convention proceeded to nominate

Mr. Hall of Hartford proposed, as candidate for Governor, the present incumbent, Gen. Joseph B. Hawley. The name was received with loud and prolonged applause. Some one moved that the nomination be made unanimous by acclamation. This was done without a dissenting voice. There was no other candidate in the field. In deed, as members of Gen. Hawley and acclamations the

The Convention then proceeded to an informal ballot for Lieutenant-Governor. For a time all was confusion. Many candidates for the office were proposed, and several withdrawn. A motion to adjourn for dinner threw the house into an uproar. A vote was taken and the motion lost. The ballot for Lieutenant-Governor then pro-

A formal vote was taken for a candidate for Secretary of State, and William T. Elmer of Middletown, received 161 votes, and David B. Booth 66. Mr. Elmer's nomination was then made unanimous.

Here (there seemed to be some difference of opinion among the members as to whether they should adjourn or wait the report of the Committee on Resolutions, but after considerable talk, the adjournment question was carried. During the recess county caucuses were held for the purpose of appointing members of the State Com-

Extra Hall of Hartford, J. M. Morris of New-Haven, H. Starkweather of New-London, L. S. Newton, R. H. Pratt of Litchfield, Asa P. Woodward of Fairfield, Jeremiah Olney and Dwight Darcy of Windham, Ladus Fuller and Marcus Lillie of Tolland, Bartlett Bent, Jr. of Middlesex.

The Chairman of the Committee on Resolutions, Gen.

O. S. Ferry, made his appearance, and was received with tremendous applause. When it had subsided he proceeded to read the resolutions as follows:

gratulate each other and the country upon that auspicious result, and pledge ourselves that Connecticut, in this respect, shall emulate the example of her loyal sister States.

"Resolved, That the pending amendment to the Federal Constitution, in the generous magnanimity of the terms which it proposed to the late insurgents, deserved, and should have received, their grateful recognition; that it

rejection by them proceeds from a still prevailing spirit of rebellion, and imposes upon the national authority the duty of establishing the Union upon more other than just and durable foundations; that, in so doing, loyalty to the Republic should be recognized as the first of political virtues, and disloyalty as the worst of political crimes; and that the protection of all citizens throughout the Republic, in the exercise of all the rights and immunities guaranteed by the Constitution should be invariably secured.

■ Resolved, That the only just basis of human governments is the consent of the governed; that, in a representative Republic such consent is expressed through the exercise of the suffrage by the individual citizen, and that the right to that exercise should not be unlimited by distinction of race or color.

"Resolved, That in any revisions of the Revenue systems, the duties upon imports should be adjusted with a view to the encouragement of American industry, without impairing the public revenue, and that the burden now imposed by internal taxation should be alleviated as far as possible, and especially by the reduction of the existing taxes upon incomes and sales.

"Resolved, That the Republican party is identified with its history and by its essential principles with the rights of the interests, and the dignity of labor; that by all the record of that history, and all the sanctity of those principles it is bound in sympathy with the toiling masses of the nation."

Resolved, That the present salutary law concerning the employment of children in manufactories and the education of such children should be rendered more efficient in its operation and rigidly enforced.

Resolved, That we heartily recommend to the people of the United States, and to the Congress assembled at this time,

"Resolved, That the Republican party regards with earnest solicitude the struggles of oppressed nationalities toward independence and a purer liberty, and that it extends its earnest sympathy to Crete, to Ireland, and to Mexico, in their heroic endeavors to liberate themselves from foreign domination.

"Resolved, That the recent so-called "Democratic Convention" at New-Haven, by its malignant spirit of hostility to the Federal authority, its deliberate attempt to renew the horrors of civil war, and its sanction of the treasonable utterances of its more prominent members, deserves, and should receive, the unqualified condemnation of every lover of the National Union."

After a speech by Mr. Trumbull the Convention adjourned, having nominated the same officers with the exception of Lieutenant-Governor and Secretary of State, who were elected last year.
